

Legs Kick Up Row Along Broadway, Bring Battle Between Follies

By NEA Service.

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—Said Gilda Gray to Miss MacNicol, "Those legs of yours induce a giggle." "My dear how do you get that way?" Said Josephine to Gilda Gray.

Casual remarks, something to that effect, have resulted in the battle of the Follies. Gilda Gray of the Ziegfeld vs. Josephine MacNicol of the Greenwich Village. Both members of the Forty-Second St. Country Club.

The rivalry over the possession of the most beautiful legs in the world began when Miss MacNicol's press agent dropped a careless remark about Josephine's legs. Unfortunately, he had not looked around the room before speaking. Had he done so he would have noticed the reporter nearby jotting down the P. A.'s statement.

To the dismay of the press agents and everyone connected with the show, this remark appeared in several metropolitan dailies. Of course, they admitted Josephine's legs were the most symmetrical in the world but "don't you think it rather bad taste to thrash these things out in the papers?"

Now Miss Gilda Gray, premiere danseuse of the Ziegfeld Follies, whose ability to shudder to music has aroused the interest of the medical profession, particularly eye-specialists, is proud of her legs. The MacNicol host played the temperamental artist.

That night, over the glasses of chocolate malted milk which the two danseuses were drinking after a strenuous evening in the cause of art, Miss Gray called Miss MacNicol's attention to the newspaper story.

Of course, everything was perfect. By ladylike and all that sort of thing but there are two results of the gentle words that passed that evening: (1) The Battle of the Legs is on. Smiling, hip and thigh—one might say.

(2) Gilda Gray has posted $1,000. If Miss MacNicol accepts a challenge to put the comparative beauty of their legs to a test by a competent jury, she must post an equal amount. The loser is to turn the money over for the dancing tuition of some needy student.

STOCK PRICES IN GENERAL INCREASE

Gulf States Individual Feature of Market—Standard Oil Reaches New High.

New York, Sept. 23.—(By A. P.)—Stock prices moved to higher ground in today's brief half holiday session, largely in response to short covering operations. Speculative interests who had sold for the decline, and paralytic war clouds, remained uncovered over the week and in view of the more favorable situation in the near east.

Gulf states was the individual feature, being pushed up to a net gain of more than four points. Much of the recent buying has been attributed to a group of Birmingham bankers and the bullish operations have been aided by the limited floating supply for trading purposes.

Standard Oil of New Jersey, was pushed up to a new high, and good gains were recorded by Mexican Petroleum. Ralls advanced with the rest of the list, but gains were generally within a radius of one point.

Equipment was among the features in the industrial group. American Car, Baldwin and Pullman each improving a point or more. Steels and coppers were virtually unchanged but St. Joseph Lead advanced 1-4 in response to higher prices and improved trade conditions. Sears Roebuck, Corn Products and Ajax Rubber stood out in the specialty list. Total sales approximated 246,000 shares.

A slightly firmer tone prevailed in the foreign exchange market, but the volume of business was small.

EUROPEAN SITUATION CAUSES DROP IN WHEAT

CHICAGO, Sept. 23.—(By A. P.)—Wheat broke sharply today as a result of news from abroad which told of a more favorable political situation and because of a decline at Liverpool. The British was weak, at a net loss of 1-8 to 2-4 with December 1925 7-8 to 106 and May 110 and 110 1-4; corn was off 5-8c to 1-2c; oats declined 1-8 to 3-4c.

and provisions were unchanged to 52 1-2c higher. Cable news and trade reports were of a more peaceful nature. England was reported to have made concessions to the Turks, which would practically eliminate all chance of a conflict. This caused some selling of lower wheat by the "war" bulls and prices slid downwards before the demand became broad enough to absorb the offerings.

Corn and oats were affected by the action of wheat and averaged lower, although the inside figures were not maintained, as local sentiment was inclined to the bull side and on the breaks numerous small buying orders were brought out. Provisions averaged higher with renewed buying for nearby deliveries of lard by leading packers.

PASTOR SEEKS CUT IN ALIMONY DECREE

GRAND RAPIDS, Sept. 23.—Vincent C. Webb, former Baptist clergyman at Alto, whose wife, several months ago, obtained a decree for separate maintenance and an order for alimony of $20 a week, has petitioned the circuit court for a modification, alleging his gross income is not in excess of $25 a week and also that he is in arrears $5 a week on the alimony since the order was issued.

MILFORD, Ind., Sept. 23.—The newly constructed Methodist Episcopal church here will be dedicated Sunday. The dedicatory address will be given by Dr. A. E. Hughes of Evansville college.

The Story of Yum-Yum Town

This is a delightful fairytale of Yum Yum Town, where sunshine is happiness and health is wealth, pound for pound. The good townfolk, all fat and "roly-poly," greet each other in the early sunshine of each happy morn with, "How are you, neighbor?" "Yum-Yum, I'm feeling fine."

And as the tale unfolds itself and we get to know better the little, jolly Miller, the Happy Grocer, Vic and Betty and all the other people of the town, there is impressed upon us something more than a Fairy Tale. It becomes a true story—a vivid picture—a sudden realization of just how much health there is in a loaf of good bread—Wholesome Bread—and especially Grandma's Bread. This is Nature's own food as she gave it, and we give it to you unchanged.

FREE JINGLE BOOK FOR THE KIDS

Starting with today's advertisement, there will appear in the South Bend News-Times a continuous series of Yum-Yum ads, telling the complete story of Yum-Yum Town. Each ad will be in the form of a Yum-Yum "jingle," a nursery rhyme to delight the children, so that in a very short time they will learn to know and love the happy family of Yum-Yum Town. As an added feature and one that is sure to make a big hit with the youngsters all over the city, a Yum-Yum Jingle Book will be given free with 20 Grandma Bread labels. We are not over-confident but have undying faith in the survival of "quality," and herewith make the statement that if anyone uses Grandma's Bread for twenty days, they will use it always.

This Jingle Book is a very attractive little present, done in beautiful colors, showing all the characters of Yum-Yum Town and a full set of all the jingles. Start saving today. Be sure your child gets one.

Nature's food is wheat—and Grandma's Bread is just naturally the best loaf of downright goodness that you have ever tasted. It is made by an organization of bakers—men who know how—bakers at the directors' table as well as bakers at the ovens. These men have combined Nature's two greatest gifts of food to mankind. They are wheat and milk, and from this combination we have a loaf that is hard to beat. In fact, we cannot conceive of its being improved. If you are weary of pretty dishes with fancy frills and feel that your appetite has been imposed upon, just give Grandma's Bread a month's trial. You are sure to eat it always.
